

PASTOR'S NICKEL

Spring

Pastor's Nickel

It seems that we have been getting little teasers of Spring in the last few weeks. And after a winter that has been unusually cold there is a longing for Spring. Spring is the promise of new life. It is crocuses blooming, nests being built, buds turning to leaves or flowers and people emerging from their homes to walk and garden and just talk over a common fence. As a teacher I get to see this happening so often in my Pastor's Class where some students are eager to learn about this faith that is slowly blooming in their hearts while other students for the first time are considering what they believe and digging deep into what that means in their life. It is always a delight in the Spring of faith because it re-energizes me in the delight of a growing faith. I don't know where your faith-life is at today, but if it has been silent in a winter season, I pray that the warmth of God's love may turn to growth in your faith life as you come to know how much he loves you and relishes a close relationship with you. *That's my nickel.
